SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

JESUS THE TRUE VINE. John, 15.1-16.

Golden Text: "I am the true vine, ye are the branches."—John, 15.5.

By Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson,

Christ had summoned the apostolic band, which had been reduced in numbers to eleven by the departure of Judas, to leave the upper room, where they had been instructed by the Lord concerning their future relations with Him. "Literature has preserved no record of the last words of a leader to his followers which approach in sublimity, tenderness and assurance these parting counsels of Jesus to those who shared His fortunes for the crowded years of His ministry." Every Christian has turned to the last words of the Lord for comfort and consolation when they have entered the valley and shadow of centre of suffering, but to fill them with courage to carry on His mission in the world.

Jesus had observed the hesitancy with which they left the table. His words and forces could easily be mobilized for

Jesus had observed the hesitancy with which they left the table. His words had filled them with discouragement. They dreaded the parting that He had predicted. He had spoken of faith in God, in Himself, and in the future life as a remedy for their heart troubles, so that they would not worry. He had outlined how He would continue to work in, with and through them by His gift of the Holy Spirit. He had estabcod, in Himself, and in the future He as a remedy for their heart troubles, so that they would not worry. He had coutlined how He would continue to work in, with and through them by His gift of the Holy Spirit. He had established the memorial supper to recall the death that He knew He would experience within less than twenty-four hours. The Master then presents a plea a symbol of Himself.

There are various conjectures for the Master's choice of this modest metaphor of the crooked, unsymmetrical grape-vine to represent Himself. It may have been suggested by the trellised branches of the old grapewine that still grows in the courtyard of the good man's house, which might have crept through the open window. It may have been suggested the decorations grape vine to represent Himself. It may have been suggested to the decoration of the respective that the grape vine to represent Himself. It may have been suggested to the decoration grape vine to represent Himself. It may have been used by the Moslems of the disciple, which indicate His life for His life for His leids. The figure of the disciple, which indicate His life for His leids. The figure of the grapevine hat they asked the Moslems of the disciple, which indicate His life for His leids. The figure of the grapevine hat the world that they passed on the way to Gethsemane. It probably was the national emblem of Israel that of speech, if the Misser refers to the sancient symbol. It is to contrast the surface of men.

new order with the old, when He declared, "I am the true vine." Delitzsch has pointed out that the vine was used also as a symbol of the Messiah. What ever the source of the Messiah. What-ever the source of the figure, and the reason for its use. Jesus gave new meaning to the old figure when He used it to teach His wavering forces that the product, process and power of Christianity were due to the personal spiritual relation of the believer to the Lord Jesus.

of the different Christian churches at home and abroad.

The possibility of early establishing Christ's kingdom among men has been increasing during the recent years. The tunneling of mountains, the sphnnling of rivers, the reclaiming of the morasses and arid lands, the erecting of skyscrapers, the manufacturing of machines, the organization of industries and the rapid annihilation of space and time by electrical inventions, all of which will be speeded up by the necessities of the war, will assist in carrying the gospel to men. Funds and forces could easily be mobilized for the conquest of the world for the Prince of Peace if the followers of Jesus, had the faith and courage to carry out Christ's commands, for He has given them the power needed to overcome all opposition.

Dynamic power comes to every Christian from abiding in Jesus. The Master of the conduction of the matter of the conduction of the matter of t

"The Transfiguration of Life" will be the subject of Rev. Edward Everett Eurnett, D. D., pastor of Foundry M. E. Church, when, on Wednesday evening, he delivers the principal address of the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Epworth League of Washington District, at Petworth M. E. Church, New Hampshire avenue and Grant circle northwest. The convention will open at 6:45 p.m., Tuesday, with the registration of the official delegates, representing the Epworth Leagues of the forty-four Methodist Episcopal churches of Washington district, after which the first session will be called to order by President Robert D. Burbank at 7:15 p.m.

A new plan has been adopted this year, it is stated by leaders in the organization, by which the greater portion of the business of the leagues will be transacted Tuesday evening, in order that the session on Wednesday may be devoted to the inspirational features of the convention.

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD.

Psalms 119.97-104. By William T. Ellis.

All of the Bible's truths are practical. So is this one perhaps the loftiest of them all. There are at least three essential means by which we find this mystical union with the Savior, which is the Christian's highest goal. First of all we must have the aid of the helping Spirit. He makes Christ real to us and brings us near to Him. Without the strong Spirit's assistance we can never realize union with Christ, The second means of abiding in Christ is through His word. There never has been a saint who has known the blessedness of communion without finding it through the Holy Sciptures. Through knowledge and obedience of the Lord's words we come to understand what it means to abide in Him. The third channel through which the blessing of union comes is prayer. In the sacred silence of the prayer closet we learn to know and love Jesus as a familiar friend. He draws nigh to us as we draw nigh to Him. We cannot neglect prayer, Bible study and dependence upon the Holy Spirit, if we would be united to Christ.

Out and out for Christ, in and in with Christ.
